The Booth

For members who attend ARBA Conventions, it is a gathering place to get information about what is going on. Judging, the banquet, where they can find a certain member. For new potential members it is a place to join, find out who has what for sale and get aquatinted.

We try to throw in some decorations, but if the host/hostess or secretary will be flying into the location, well that means that “candy treats” will be about all of our decorations. Occasionally some wonderful member driving and living nearby will provide wonderful decorations using the Convention theme.

We have a raffle to help defray the cost of the booth, booth rentals vary but you can figure on $200.00 to $300.00 for a single booth. We always try to get at least 2 spaces and depending on the location and the membership there are times when we get 3. Electricity is becoming almost a necessity to keep our phones charged for instant photo's on line as the judging is progressing.

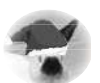

The items that garner the most ticket sales would be the transport cages, filled with region goodies or just standing alone. Adult beverages also go quite well. Gift cards are starting to show up, A Chase credit card or a Starbucks always go well. And credit gift cards fit nicely in your wallet, and can be mailed to the booth host or secretary anytime.

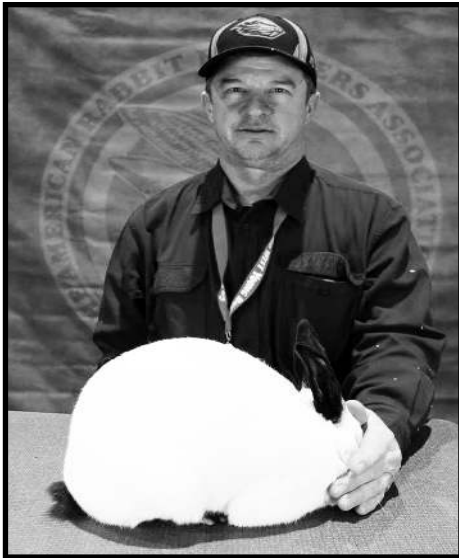

God willing, I will be the booth hostess in Pennsylvania and I will be flying, so unless some kind soul on the East Coast volunteers to do some decorations, we will have “candy” that I can buy locally. Being in the booth when everyone else is watching the show is not boring, it can be quite rewarding. Last year, Delores Brennan and Mark Burant were wonderful about holding down the fort while I snapped photo's.

Cheers
